TO THE READER.

AVING observed in the many books published of late, of Markets, Fairs, Roads, Coaches, and Carriers several promiscuous mistakes, great omissions, and things very difficult and puzzling to be understood; I resolved, if possible, to collect a more compleat and exact list, not only of the Coaches and Carriers, but likewise with the addition of several Markets and Fairs, never in any book of his nature before.

To render this Work the more pleasant as well as useful, I have given a description of the nature, soil, and chief commodities of every county in England and Wales, with the number of parliament-men, distance of all the noted towns from London, roads, cross-roads, &c.

The kind reception the former impressions of this Work have met with from the Public, has induced me to revise this New Edition, and to make in it the following useful and entertaining improvements :

1. I have added, in every county in which a city is situated, A brief historical account of its antiquity, its present state, and its civil government.

2. I have given the number of hundreds into which each county is divided, with the names thereof, except in the counties of Cumberland, Durham and Westmoreland, which have no such division.

3. I have likewise in the roads given the distances from one town to another ther in measured miles and furlongs in the first column, and in the second, the distance from London is cast up; so that the traveller, when he comes to any town, may see how far he is from London, and likewise how far he has to go to the end of his intended journey. I have observed the same method in the cross-roads.

4. To render this Work of general use to all the inhabitants of each county, the Reader will find here the names of the principal towns, with their distances from their respective shire or assize towns, which will be serviceable to all those who are obliged to attend the judges, either as jurymen, plaintiffs, or defendants, in cases of law, felony, and the like.

5. I have revised the seats of the nobility and gentry in each county, and have made very considerable additions thereto.

6 To the R E A D E R.

6. From the best authors and observations, I have corrected the orthography of the several names of the cities and towns mentioned in this Work.

7. And lastly, I have inserted an account of the quota's each county raises to the land-tax for the year 1751; a list of the several dioceses, with the number of parishes in each; and a brief history of England, Scotland, Wales, and the isles of Jersey, Guernsey, &c.

The whole done alphabetically, and in the most easy and plain manner; which I hope, will be acceptable, and answer the trouble and design; which will be a great satisfaction to

Your Humble Servant,

England and Wales.

BEDFORDSHIRE,

In the diocese of Lincoln, 73 miles in circumference; contains about 260,000 acres, and 12,170 houses. The air is temperate; the soil, especially the north-east part, fruitful; and its principal rivers are Ouse and Ivel. The whole county is well stored with corn and cattle: its chief commodities are butter, cheese, poultry, and woad for dying. Towards Oulney and Newport-pagnel, the inhabitants, especially the women, employ themselves in weaving bone-lace; towards Dunstable and Luton they make straw-hats, and other things of that sort; which manufactures

BERKSHIRE,

IS in Salisbury diocese, 120 miles in circumference; contains about 527,000 acres, and 16,900 houses. The air is sweet, the soil plentiful. The whole county is well stored with corn, cattle, fish, fowl, wool, and wood, especially oak and beech. Its chief rivers are Thames and Kennet. It contains 140 parishes. The chief town is Reading, 40 miles from London, noted formerly for cloth, and now for malt. Here was a most noble manufacture of canvas, or sail-cloth, wherein great numbers of poor people were constantly employed by sir Owen Buckingham, alderman of London; but he dying, the trade in a great measure fell off: yet there is still a considerable branch of it carried on there, particularly of the spinning, which employs many hundred women and children. Abingdon, a large town, hath a free-school, and an hospital well endowed. Hungerford is noted for trouts and craw-fish; Newbury for a coarse sort of cloth; Windsor, for its castle, which is one of the king's palaces, and the college of the knights of the garter, situated strongly and pleasantly, and curiously adorned.

BERKSHIRE.

adorned by king Ch. II. and his successors with the excellency of modern painting and carving. It has a fine park and forest belonging to it.

Its chief seats are :

Bayles, D. Cleveland's ; Benham, L. Craven's ; Old Windsor, L. Delawar's ; Bill-hill, L. Gower's ; Shillingford, the Marlboroughs ; Billingbare, E. Portsmouth's ; Wytham, E. CAMBRIDGE, as an university, is one of the chief cities of this kingdom, said, to be first founded by a Cantaber a Spaniard 270 years before Christ. It hath 16 colleges, and the collegians are computed at 1000: the colleges are mostly exceeding neat, magnificent ficient and well built : the senate-house is a great ornament to the town : they have also a town-hall, and lately a shire-house built adjoining, at the expence of the county. It has 14 parish-churches ; but is a dirty ill-built place. It is a town corporate, governed by a mayor, high-steward, recorder, 13 aldermen, and 24 common-council-men. Peter house was founded by Hugh de Balsham, bp of Ely in 1284 ; Corpus Christi, Henry of Monmouth, D. of Lancaster 1346 ; Gonvil and Caine, 1348 ; King's, Hen. 6, 1441 ; Queen's, Margaret his Queen, 1448 ; Jesus, J. Alcock, bp of Ely, 1497 ; Christ's, Margaret, co. of Richmond, mother of H. 7, 1506 ; St. John's, ditto, 1506 ; Magdalen, Ed. Stafford, D. Bucks, 1542 ; Trinity, Hen. 7, 1546 ; Emanuel, Sir W. Mildmay, 1584 ; Sidney-Sussex, Frances Sidney, co. of Sussex, 1598 ; Clare, R. Badew, 1343 ; Pembroke, Mary, co. of Pembroke, 1347 ; Trinity, W. Bateman, bp of Norwich 1353 ; Catherine, R. Woodlarke, chancellor, 1549.

C H E S H I R E,

IN the diocese of Chester, 112 miles in circumference, contains about 720,000 acres, and 25,054 houses ; is a county palatine ; the air wholsome, the soil good. The men, called the chief of men, are famous for strength ; the women for beauty : the gentry are here very numerous, and famous for antientry, loyalty and hospitality. Its rivers are Dee and Weever ; its commodities, corn, cattle, cheeze, fish, fowl, metals, salt and mill stones ; contains 71 parishes. Chester is 182 miles from London ; Namptwich, Middlewich and Northwich are noted for salt-pits ; Macclesfield for buttons, Congleton for gloves.

CHESTER is an ancient city, built in 908. It consists chiefly of four large streets, is begirt with a wall first erected by Ædelfleda, a Mercian lady, with four gates, three posterns, and is two miles in circumference.

It

It is an episcopate, and has a cathedral, a bishop's palace, nine churches, a most stately hall, somewhat like that at Westminster, and a noble stone-bridge of 12 arches over the Dee. The city is peculiar for its galleries, or piazzas, upon which it is built. It has a good quay where vessels of considerable burthen load and unload. It is governed by a mayor, 24 aldermen, 2 sheriffs, and 40 of the common-council.

CORNWALL,

IN the diocese of Exeter, in circumference of 230 miles, contains about 960,000 acres, and 25,374 houses; the air is clear and sharp, the vallies rich in corn and pasture, and the hills in mines of copper and tin, not without gold and silver: the tinners are incorporated with many ancient laws and privileges in four divisions, called Foymore, Blackmore, Trewarnaile and Penwaile, in each of which divisions are held stannary courts, and sometimes parliaments of the whole society. The men are strong and boisterous, great wrestlers, and healthy. This county is enriched by the great number of fish, especially pilchards, taken on these coasts: its other commodities are French and bearded wheat, and other corn; fowl in great abundance, woodcocks especially; the fine blue salt, that the French call Ardois; and transparent pebbles, like diamonds. Here is plenty of rosa solis and sage, hyssop and rosemary, growing wild on the sea-cliffs, and also samphire and eringo. It hath many safe and commodious ports and havens, as Falmouth, vastly spacious, &c; the chief rivers are Tamer, Camel mel and Fale. It contains 171 parishes. Launceston, its shire-town, is 239 miles from London.

Its chief seats are :

Stow, countess of Granville's; Lanhedrock, E. Radnor's; Thurlebar, L. Arundel's; Tregothuan, V. Falmouth's; Alternon, V. Faulconberg's; Warrington, Sir W. Morrice's; Treowren, Sir Fr. Vivian's; Clowant, Sir J. St Aubyn's; Trebigh, Sir Bourchier Wray's; Godolphin, E. Godolphin's.

This county is divided into 9 hundreds.

CUMBERLAND,

IN the dioceses of Chester and Carlisle, in circumference 168 miles, contains about 1,040,000 acres, and 14,825 houses. The air is sharp; the soil tolerably fruitful, the hills for feeding, and the vallies for corn. It has divers rivers; the chief is Eden. In this county hath been found many Roman antiquities. Here is fowl and fish in great plenty: In the mussels are found pearls. Here are great mines of copper about Newland and Keswick, the only place, some say, for it, in Europe. It contains 58 parishes. Carlisle is 301 miles from London. Penrith is noted for tanners, Whitehaven for coals and salt. This having been a frontier county to Scotland, the seats of the nobility are built mostly castle-ways. The

The chief seats are:

Naworth, E. Carlisle's; Cokermouth, D. Somerset's; Bleckhall, E. Sussex's; Greystoke, D. Norfolk's; Hatton, Sir R. Musgrave's; Isle, Sir Wilfrid Lawson's; Bowtell, the Couplands.

CARLISLE is a city of great antiquity, the see of a bishop, and is pleasantly situated near and guarded by three rivers. It is a frontier town on the Picts wall, and the key of England on the West. Here is a castle and a garrison. It is encompassed by a wall so thick that three men may walk abreast within the parapet, and hath three gates through it. It has a stone-bridge over the Eden. The cathedral is a venerable old pile, and said to be built by Hen. VIII. There is another church called St Cuthbert's. Carlisle is a wealthy and populous place, and the houses are well built. The inhabitants of this place suffered in the rebellion in 1745, when the rebels, or northern banditti, possessed themselves of their castle; from whence they were soon drove by the king's forces. It trades chiefly in fustians, is govern'd by a mayor, 12 aldermen, a sheriff, 2 bailiffs, and 24 common-council-men, &c.

and

DERBYSHIRE,

IN the dioc. of Lichfield and Coventry, 130 miles in circumference; contains about 680,000 acres, and 21,155 houses. The air and soil is good, especially the south and east parts; the north and west are hilly: its rivers Trent and Derwent. This county is stored with corn, cattle, and wood. Here are mines of alabaster, marble, crystal, millstones and whetstones. It has pit-coal, iron and lead, the best in England, in great plenty; in some places is Antimony. Buxton-well has two springs, one of hot, the other of cold water, and the Peak, called the Devil's Arse, has been plumbed to 800 fathom, and yet no bottom found. Here are 106 parishes. The shire-town is Derby, well-built, large, populous and rich; 122 miles from London.

Its chief seats are:

Chattsworth, D. Devonshire's; Bretby, E. Chesterfield's; Sutton-hall, L. Cavendish's; Bolsover, D. Newcastle's; Belvoir, D. Rutland's; Walton, Sir J. Jenkinson's; Calke, Sir H. Harpur's; Shirley, E. Ferrers's; Wilsey, the Abneys; Others: Formark-hall, Drakelow, Eggington, Barlborough, Bradley, Sloone, Hopton, Norbury, Wingerworth. This

EXETER, the capital of this county, hath often changed its name. From the number of religious houses and monks formerly, it was called Monketon. This was a station of the Romans when they invaded Britain. The cathedral is an uniform structure, tho' said to be 300 years in building. It suffer'd in the times of anarchy and fanaticism. It is common to see at the six clock prayers in a morning 500 people. Here is an hospital lately established for sick and lame. This city

DURHAM is a city built in 995 by some neighbouring monks. The county in which it is situated is a palatinate, and one of the bishops of Durham purchased the rights thereof, of Rich. I. and by will left it to his successors. Hen. VIII. greatly abridg'd this power, and Edw. VI. by act of parliament dissolved the bishopric entirely; but Q. Mary restored it. So that the present bishop is a temporal prince, keeps a court of equity, and holds courts of justice. He is earl of Sudberg, and takes place next London. The jurisdiction diction is called St. Cuthbert's Patrimony; to which saint the cathedral is dedicated. The church is very rich, and the clergy use the old vestments on Sundays, the Romans had before the reformation, which are exceeding rich. It is one of the wealthiest bishoprics in England. The city is large, populous, healthy, pleasant, and almost surrounded by the Were, over which it hath two stone-bridges of several arches each: It hath 6 parish-churches, a bishop's palace, and the houses of the clergy are magnificent and grand. Provisions are here both cheap and very good. It is governed by a mayor, 12 aldermen, 12 common-council-men, a recorder and 2 sheriffs. Neither city nor county ever sent members to parliament, till 1672.

E S S E X,

IN London diocese, 150 miles in circumference contains about 1,249,000 acres, and 34,860 houses. Its air is very good, except by the Sea or Thames moist and aguish; the soil is rich and good. Its rivers are Thames, Stowre, Blackwater, Coln, Chelmer, Stort, Lea, Crouch and Roding. At Bow is the first stone-bridge built in England as is said, by the command of the empress Maud. This county has abundance of corn, cattle, wood, fowl and fish. It is noted for cloth, stuffs, hops and saffron; Braintry and Bocking for bays; Halsted and Hemingham for hops and laxes; Walden for saffron; Colchester and Coggeshall for white bays; the whole county for the finest veal; Walden, Thaxted, Halsted and Chelmsford for fine churches; Stratford for its China manufacture; and Duxmow for its ancient custom.

custom, that the man and woman, residing in the said manor, having been married a twelvemonth and upwards, do swear, that they never repented of such their marriage; which the jury finding, a fitch of bacon is deliver'd to the parties in open court, and this happened last at a court held in 1750. It hath 415 parishes. Colchester is noted for oysters, and is remarkable for the many Roman antiquities found there; Harwich for its harbour, nearest of any to Holland; Tilbury Fort, a strong block-house facing Gravesend; Chelmsford the Assize-town, 28 miles from London.

Wansted and Parsley, E. Tilney's and Castlemain's; Horseheath, L. Montford's; Audley-End, L. Effingham's; Thorndon-hall, L. Petre's; Witham, E. Abacorn's; Easton-parva, L. Maynard's; Beaulieu, late W. Barrington's; Knoll-hill, Lady Fortescue's; Giddymall, Gov. Benyon's; Moulsham-hall, E. Fitzwalter's, and E. Harwich's; Barking, Alderman Gaseyne's; Hill-hall, Sir Edw. Smith's; Albyns, Sir Thomas Abdy's; Haringate, Sir John Turrel's; Lowlayton; Sir F. Tench's; Ruckholt-house, late Sir H. Hickes's, now a house of entertainment; Felix-hall, Sir Anth. Abdy's; Bradburn, Sir Roger Twisden's; Bardfield, Sir James Lowther's; Bocking-hall, Sir W. Barker's; Cranham-hall, Sir Nat. Wright's; Bucken-hall, Sir W. Barker's; Bumsted, Sir H. GLOUCESTER is a city and county of itself, of great antiquity. It hath a bishop's palace, a fine cathedral, five churches, a stone bridge over the Severn, a guild-hall, and many fine buildings. It was in Popish times full of churches, chapels and religious houses, which were raised to the prayer, As sure as God's in Gloucester. It was made the see of a bishop by Henry the eighth. It is governed by a mayor, 12 aldermen, and 28 common-council-men. The aldermen are justices of the peace, and two sheriffs are annually chosen out of them. It hath also a high-steward, a recorder, town-clerk, and incorporated companies, who attend the mayor at public occasions. It is a place of good trade, and hath a large wharf and quay, and a custom-house. There is good provision for the poor by hospitals.

and 26,851 houses. The air is temperate, the soil rich. Here is plenty of corn, cattle, wool, wood, iron, honey and bacon. Its rivers are Stowre, Avon, Itching, &c. Its chief manufactures, kersies and stuffs. Here are 253 parishes. The shire-town; (tho' it be a county of itself) is Southampton; Winchester is the assize-town 67 miles from London; Portsmouth is a royal arsenal, a fort and a Harbour; Weymouth is also a fine harbour.

South of this county, and belonging to it, lies the Isle of Wight, 60 miles in circumference, its militia are the best disciplined in England. It abounds in corn, cattle, fish, hares, conies, and wild-fowl. Its wool is next in fineness to that of Cotswold. It has 36 parishes, and 3 market-towns. Newport, large and populous. Cowes and Carisbrooks are places near it, fortified each with a castle; so is Sandham and Yarmouth. Spithead, between Portsmouth and the Isle of Wight, is a road where the navy-royal frequently rendezvous, and so also is St. Helens.

Its chief seats are: Abbatston and Blackwood, D. Bolton's; Beaulieu, D. Montague's; Bell-bar, Lady Jekyl's; Down Husband, E. Portsmouth's; Edwirth, L. Dormer's; Hmton, L. Mew's; Quicklet, L. Salisbury's; Moyle, L. Windsor's; Hide-hall, Lady Miller's; Auckland, Sir J. Eden's; Bramshall, Sir J. Cope's; Chilton, Sir R. Worley's; Hursley, Sir W. Heathcote's; Motiesford, Sir R. Mills'; Roch-Court, Sir Brocas Gardiner's; Herstey, Sir Simon Steuart's. In the Isle of Wight, Appledore, home, the Worleys; Kingston, Lady Meaux's; Swainston, Sir J. Barrington's.

WINCHESTER is a very antient city, called by the Romans, Ventus Belgarium. It has a fine cathedral, famous all over Europe; a bishop's palace, a noble college well endowed; and a royal palace begun by Ch. III which he did not finish. In the town-hall they now shew you part of king Arthur's round-table, at which he and his 124 knights used to sit; a piece of antiquity of 1200 years standing; it has on it the names of the knights in Saxon characters, but not very legible. The city is about a mile and a half within the walls, and contains besides the cathedral, 5 parish-churches. Here is a great deal of good company, and the neighbourhood abounds with nobility and gentry; and here is also the hospital of St. Cross, where a traveller, who knocks at the door, may claim a piece of bread and a cup of beer. It is governed by a mayor and aldermen whose number is not limited, out of whom are chose 6 justices, 24 common-council-men, a high steward, recorder, &c. It has a guildhall built within these few years.

H A R T F O R D S H I R E,

IN the diocese of London and Lincoln; 130 miles in circumference, contains about 451,000 acres, and 17,488 houses. The air is sweet and healthful; the soil for the most part chalky, but fruitful enough in corn and wood. It is proverbially said, that they who buy a seat in Hertfordshire, pay two years purchase for the air. Its rivers are Colne and Lea: its chief commodities, wheat, barley and malt. It has 120 parishes. The shire-town is 21 miles from London. Barnet is noted for its medicinal waters; Berkhamsted for its ancient castle; Hitchin for its school; Ware for a canal, which furnishes London with water, called The New River.

Its chief seats are:

Aldenham, D. Newcastle's; Beachworth, L. Montjoy's; Hatfield, E. Salisbury's; Cashiobury, E. Essex's; Broxbournbury, L. Monson's; Quickswood, L. Salisbury's; Durham, E. Albemarle's; Langlebury, L. Raymond's; Gorhambury, L. Grimstone's; Hide-hall, Sir Strange Jocelyn's; Holywell, Dutchess Dow, of Marlborough's; North Mims, D. Leeds's; Theobalds, E. Portland's; Putteridge, Sir G. Warburton's; Berkhamsted, the Ropers; Wotton, the Botelers; Pishobury, the Gardeners; Bennington, the Cesars; Penley, the Marcourts; Gobions, Sir Jer. Sambroke's; Ridge, Sir T. Pope Blount's. Other Seats: Stagny-hall, Lammer, Tringwater, the Hoo, Titenhanger, Langley, Cognedge, Offley, Apston, Knebworth, Wigde, and Briggins.

HEREFORD is a noted city, and an episcopate. It hath a cathedral, a bishop's palace, a college, and an hospital well endowed; and 4 parish-churches. It is begirt with a wall, and almost encompassed by the Ise, at its influx into the Wye. The trade of the town is in cloves, hops and cyder. It is governed by a mayor,

90 HUNTINGTONSHIRE.

12 aldermen, 5 of whom are justices of the peace, a recorder, town-clerk, high-steward and 31 of the common-council; a sword-bearer and 4 serjeants. Here are several companies, who have their halls, by-laws, and privileges.

HUNTINGTONSHIRE,

IS in Lincoln diocese; 67 miles in circumference, contains about 240,000 acres, and 8,217 houses. The air is diverse; for the most part moist. It is generally of a fertile soil; and in former times was very woody. Its chief river is the Ouse; and it has several lesser: its chief commodities are corn and cattle. It contains 79 parishes. Huntington is the shire and assize town 57 miles from London, having a good free-school. St Ives and Neots are eminent for markets and fairs, and for medicinal waters; Godmanchester for good husbandmen.

Its chief seats are:

Bugden, bishop of Lincoln's; Kimbolton, D. Manchester's; Hinchingbroke, E. Sandwich's; Gedding E. Rockingham's; Stibinton, D. Bedford's; Overton Longvile, E. Lincoln's; Brampton, Sir J. Bernard's; Stoughton, Sir Baldwin Conyers's; Houghton, Sir John Barnard's; Paxton, Dr Anderson's.

This county is divided into 3 hundreds.

K E N T,

HAS in it the dioceses of Canterbury and Rochester; is 162 miles in circumference. The people of it boast they never were bondsmen i. e. never held their lands in villanage. It contains about 1,248,000 acres, and 39,240 houses. It was formerly a kingdom of itself. It is accommodated with two great rivers, Thames and Medway; besides the Stowre, Darent, and other lesser ones. Its chief commodities are corn, cattle, tle, fruit, especially pippins and cherries ; woad, and madder for dyers ; hops, wood, flax, Saint-foyn, samphire ; and near Deal, fowl and fish ; the Medway yields to no river except the Thames for the choicest salmon ; and Fordwich trouts are incredibly large and delicate. The isles of Thanet and Sheepey are well-stored with sheep and corn. It contains 408 parishes. Canterbury is 56, and Rochester 30 miles from London. At Chatham is a station for the navy-royal, and one of the best docks in the kingdom. Maidston is the affize-town, noted for thread and hops ; Dover for its castle and pier ; Faversham for its trade by hoy to London ; Tunbridge for its medicinal waters ; Wyat for its free-school ; Woolwich, for building and furnishing the royal-navy ; Dover, Hith, Rumney and Sandwich are four of the Cinque-ports ; the fifth is Hastings ; which with two of their appendages Winchelsea and Rye, is in Sussex. These towns have all great and distinct privileges. Their burgesses are called barons of the Cinque-ports. In the procession of coronation, they support the canopies over the king and queen, and afterwards have on that day table at the king's right-hand, and keep the canopy for their fee. Greenwich was, about 1735, made a market-town, famous for its hospital for It comfable and aged seamen ; it is now near finish'd houses and receives 2000 ; it has a fine chapel. Here is also a royal palace. The privileges of gavel-kind belonging to this county, granted and confirmed others to them by William the conqueror, are threefold : 1. The heirs male share all the lands alike. 2. The

K E N T.

2. The heir is at 15 at full age to sell or alienate.
 3. If the father were convicted of treason, yet the son enjoys his inheritance: hence that proverb,
The father to the bough, and the son to the plough.

Its chief seats are:

Charlton, E. Egmont's; Knoll, D. Dorset's; Lee's Court, L. Rockingham's; Penshurst, E. Leicester's; Eastwell, E. Winchelsea's; Chevening, L. Stanhope's; Fairland, L. Vane's; Caxton, L. CANTERBURY, is a very antient city, called by the Romans Duroverno; it is the first place in this island that received the Christian faith, which was first preached here by Augustine the monk. Hence it became the archiepiscopal see, and its bishop the primate of all England, and now the first peer of the realm. Its cathedral is the finest in the kingdom, famous for the metropolitan chair, which stands behind the high-altar, and for its remnants of painted glass. This city is strongly walled about, and begirt with a deep ditch; and is situated on the river Stowre, which runs through the city. It is populous, drives a great trade in hops, and has abundance of weavers. Here are six wards, denominated from its six gates; 15 parish-churches, a free-school called the king's school; three others, and seven hospitals, and there is a gallows in the market-place. It is a city and county of itself, and is governed by a mayor, 12 aldermen, a sheriff, a recorder and 24 common-council-men.

ROCHESTER, is likewise a Roman city, situated on the river Medway, over which it has a stately stone-bridge, scarce inferior to any in this kingdom, except those of London and Westminster. It is a bishop's see, hath a cathedral, a bishop's palace, an old ruinous castle, a town-house, and one parish-church. Kent is the only county that can boast the having two cities and bishoprics within its limits; and of being of itself an entire kingdom under the heptarchy. Rochester consists of one large broad street. It is governed by a mayor, 12 aldermen and 12 common-council-men, a recorder, a town-clerk, and a water-bailiff. The city together with Chatham and Stroud form by their connexion a very large and populous place. It has some trade, and its inns are well resort'd to.

LANCASHIRE,

IN the diocese of Chester, 170 miles in circumference, contains about 1,150,000 acres, and 40,000 houses, a county-palatine. The air is serene and sharp; the soil diverse; the moorish part is not very fruitful; but this county is stored with all sorts of provision. The rivers are Mersey, Ribble, Lune, Irk and Irwell. The inhabitants are healthful; the women beautiful. The chief commodities are oats and cattle, oxen especially: those of this county and Somersetshire are the statelyest in England: fowl, fish, particularly Char in Winander-meer; pitcoals, which serve not only for fuel, but to make several utensils little inferior to jet, and flax. The chief manufactures are woollen cloths, cottons and ticken. Here are 60 parishes. The shire-town is Lancaster, 233 miles from London. Liverpool is a sea-port and a place of great trade. Manchester also is a town of great trade for woollen and linen manufactures. Wigan has near it a sulphureous boiling well.

The chief seats are:

Stoney-hurst, D. Norfolk's; Ashton, D. Hamilton's; Dunkeylagh, L. Petre's; Croxtath, L. Molineux's; West-hall, E. Hyndford's; Gafwood, Sir W. Gerard's; Bryn, Sir T. Gerard's; Croxhall, E. LINCOLN is a city of a noble and bold situation, a bishop's see, and a place of great note, and a county of itself, with a viscountial jurisdiction for 20 miles round, which no other city in this kingdom can boast of. It is situated on the river Witham, which is so arched

arched over as not to be seen in the street. Its cathedral is the largest, except York, and is very magnificent, and by its situation on the top of a hill, seen to a great distance. On one side of the spire is fix'd a representation of the devil with wings. The monks feign'd, that the devil envied the situation; and hence the proverb, He looks as the devil over Lincoln. Here is now the greatest bell in England, call'd Tom of Lincoln; hence the proverb, As loud as Tom of Lincoln. It weighs 4 tons, 1894 pounds. This see is the biggest in the kingdom, having 1255 parishes. Lincoln has 14 parish-churches, is a place of trade, populous, and is governed by a mayor, recorder, 2 sheriffs, 12 aldermen, 2 chamberlains, and 40 of the common-council.

IN the diocese of London, 95 miles in circumference, containing about 247,000 acres, and above 160,000 houses, including London and Westminster. It has a sweet and wholesome air and fertile soil, much improved by compost brought from London. Its rivers are Thames, Lea, and Colne; its commodities, cattle, corn and fruit; it has 73 parishes besides those of London and Westminster, which are 144; in all 218; if to these we add the several chapels, the foreign chapels, the meetings of the several denominations of dissenters, the jews synagogues, &c. we shall find this little county has about 500 places of religious worship in it. Its chief seats are: The palaces of Hampton-Court, Kensington and St James's. Belonging to the nobility are Marlborough house, D. Marlborough's; Buckingham-house, M. Sheffield's

LONDON is the metropolis of all England, the glory of the British empire, a bishop's see, and is reckoned at this time, the richest, largest, and most populous city in all Europe. It is pleasantly and healthfully situated on the river of Thames, about 60 miles from the main ocean. It is in length 7 miles, in breadth 3 miles, 6 furlongs, and in circumference 28 miles. The number of inhabitants are computed at 1,500,000; nor can they be less when we consider the great increase of people and buildings for these last 40 years. This city is govern'd by a chief magistrate, who is annually chosen by the principal citizens, and stiled for that year The Right Honourable the Lord Mayor of the City of London. To assist whom in the government there are 26 aldermen, out of whom the livery-men of the several companies chuse him on michaelmas-day, at a court of Hulings held in the guildhall. The city is divided into 26 wards; the inhabitants of every ward being housekeepers and freemen, elect their alderman, who when once chosen, remains so during life; they are stiled Worshipful, and may be said to be, Peers or Barons of the City of London; and they hold a court every tuesday, and have great power. For the better government of this great city, there is likewise a court of common-council, consisting of 236 members, which is composed of such fit and proper persons, householders in every ward, as are annually chosen by the several ward-motes held by the aldermen on thomas's day, as representatives of the respective wards.

So that here is a perfect resemblance of king, lords and commons. This court has the greatest power in city-affairs. London chuses annually two sheriffs for itself and county of Middlesex. It hath a recorder, a town-clerk, a common-serjeant, a chamberlain, a remembrancer, &c. &c. The lord mayor is judge of oyer and terminer for the city and whole county of Middlesex; he likewise holds a court of equity or chancery as lord Chancellor of the city of London, wherein suits come to a period in nine months. By a late charter obtained by the mayoralty of Sir John Barnard, Knt. all the aldermen on their election are constituted justices of the peace, and ever since sit daily by rotation in the guild-hall for the administration of justice. It hath 1 cathedral; 2 collegiate churches; 3 choirs of music; 145 parishes; 69 chapels; 28 foreign churches; about 100 meetings of the several denominations of protestant dissenters; several popish-chapels; and 3 jews synagogues; 15 hospitals; 90 alms-houses; 3 colleges; 7 prisons; 8 free schools; 132 charity-schools; 15 markets for flesh; 2 for live-cattle; 2 herb-markets; other markets; 15 inns of courts; 4 fairs; 27 squares; bridges; a guildhall; a royal-exchange; a custom-house; a corn-market; 3 artillery-gounds; 4 pest-houses; 2 bishop's palaces; 3 royal palaces; a manor-house for the lord-mayor, which is a stately and magnificent building; 60 halls belonging to the seven livery-companies; a city-arge, and 10 other companies barge, which on lord-mayor's day make a splendid and grand appearance on the river Thames. As to the commerce of this metropolis, that may judge of from the number of merchantmen usually to be seen between London-bridge and Blackfriars, and which are never less than 2000. The inhabitants are polite, generous, charitable, hospitable, and brave.

Rates of Carmen settled at the general sessions of the peace for the city of London.

YOU must observe their number, for if any person works without he shall forfeit for every offence 15 s. 4 d. also, if any carman carries coals without a lawful bushel, and lawful sacks, he shall forfeit for every such offence 10 s. So if any carman put into his cart more than one horse for the carriage of any merchandize, except up a hill, or with timber, stone, or other commodities, where the load cannot be divided, he shall pay for his first offence 10 s. for the second 20 s. and for every other 30 s. and the supernumerary horse to be impounded till the penalty be paid.

Likewise, if any drayman, or carman, that drives, shall ride thereon, or drive his horse a trot, through or in the street, he shall be carried before a justice of the peace, to be dealt with according to the offence, and the horses, or mares, shall be carried to the green yard.

Or if any carman be taken not leading his horse by the head, he shall forfeit for every offence, 2 s.

Those merchants, or others, that have occasion to use carts, are free to chuse what carts they please; except such as stand for wharf-work, tackle-work, and crane-work, which are to stand in order, and to be taken in turn.

So if any person refuse to pay the rates following, the carman is to appeal to the governors of Christ's-hospital, or to any justice of the peace, where he may be relieved.

Or if any gentleman or other, shall cause any carman to stay with his loaden cart, above half an hour before he unloads, and the carman being willing to help to unload the same, such merchants or other persons, shall pay after the rate of 1 s. per hour, for his attendance.

So when any carman stands with his empty cart next to any goods that are to be loaden, he shall, on demand, load the same without any delay, bargaining for other wages than is appointed in the following rates ; and if he shall refuse to load, he shall pay for his first offence 5 s. and for every other offence 10 s. and the next cart, in order, that shall be willing, shall be at liberty to load the same.

Likewise, no carman is to come to any of the wharfs or places of keeping turn between the bridge and Tower-wharf, before five of the clock in the morning in summer-time, or before seven in the morning in winter-time ; unless a merchant or any other person, have an extraordinary occasion to require to the contrary.

Also, the carman, for the following rates, is to help to load and unload ; and if any carman shall take for his labour and hire above the rates following, limited and appointed, and the same be duly proved by one or more credible witness or witnesses, before the lord mayor, or any two of his majesty's justices of the peace, such carman shall suffer imprisonment, for the space of 21 days, without bail or mainprize, according to the statute in that behalf ; and shall undergo such farther pains and penalties as by the law may be inflicted for the said offence.

And if any carman shall refuse to appear upon the summons of the president and governors of Christ's-hospital, he shall be punished at the discretion of the said president and governors, either by fine, penalty, or suspension.

Complaints of the abuses of carmen may be made every tuesday, at two of the clock in the afternoon, to the court sitting in Christ's-hospital; where, telling the number of the cart, the carman's name will be found out, and he punished.

FROM any wharf between the Tower and London-bridge, Tower-street, Gracechurch-street, Fenchurch-street, Bishops-gate-street within, to Cornhill, and plotts, or of like distance up the hill, with 18 hundred wt. ay, or not exceeding 20 hundred weight 2 s.

From any of the keys below bridge, to Ironmonger-lane, Broad-street, Lotbury, Old-jewry, Basingball-street, Coleman-street, Milk-street, St Lawrence-lane, Aldermanbury, Cheapside, Wood street, Friday-street, Bread-street, and places of like distances, for every load not exceeding 20 hundred weight, 2 s. 6 d. and for every hundred weight exceeding the said 20 hundred 2 d.

From any of the said wharfs to Smithfield-bars, or Halborn-bars, Temple-bar, or the like distance, not exceeding 20 hundred weight, 3 s. 4 d.

No carman is to carry above 20 hundred weight at one time of any commodity whatsoever, that may be divided; and for liquid commodities, to carry no more than one butt, or one pipe, or three hogsheads, or two puncheons, in a cart at one time, upon the penalty of paying for the first offence 5 s. for the second 10 s. and the third offence to be disabled from working any cart within the city of London, and liberties thereof.

Whatsoever waterman takes more than these rates, is liable to pay 40s. and to half year's imprisonment.

N. B. There is no occasion for making a bargain with any waterman before-hand: But at whatever stairs you find a waterman waiting for a fare, call to him, and go into his boat, bidding him carry you to the place where you design to land: when you are landed, pay him according to the foregoing rates, which if he refuses to accept, and demands more, take the number of the boat; and when you know that, give him more money than he requires, and demand your change, charging him to take no more than his due: and if he has taken more than his appointed fare, go to Watermans-hall, near the Old Swan stairs, and enquire for the clerk, to whom relate your business, giving him the number of the boat; and the clerk will summon him to attend at the hall, and answer to the complaint; where you will be sure to have justice done you, and the person punished as the fault deserves.

The rules of Hackney-coachmen and Chairmen, with their rates.

EVERY coach is to be marked with its number on tin-plates, of the breadth of $6\frac{1}{2}$ inches, and the length of $9\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

If any coachman, or chairman, shall refuse to go at, or exact more for his hire, than these rates following, he shall for every offence forfeit 40*s.*

Note. Hackney-chairmen are obliged to go the same distance for 1*s.* 6*d.* which the coaches perform for 1*s.* And also no hackney-coachman shall take for his hire more than 1*s.* for any distance not exceeding one mile and a half; and 1*s.* 6*d.* for any greater distance, not exceeding two miles.

And hackney-chairmen, shall not take more than 1*s.* for any distance not exceeding one mile; and 1*s.* 6*d.* for any distance not exceeding one mile and a half.

No hackney-coachman shall presume to take for his hire, in or about the city of London and Westminster, more for one day of 12 hours than 10*s.* And for one hour 1*s.* 6*d.* And for every hour after the first 1*s.* One hundred only, and the court is held on the last tuesday in every month.

The act likewise establishes one county court for the hundreds of Elthorne, Goare, Spelthorne and Isleworth, upon the same plan, and the court is held at Brentford, the first tuesday in every month.

MONMOUTHSHIRE,

IN the diocese of Landaff, 80 miles in circumference, contains about 340,000 acres, and 6,490 houses. The air is healthful and temperate; the soil hilly and woody, yet very fertile. Its rivers are Monow, Wye, Usk, Rumney: its chief commodities, cattle and corn. It has 127 parishes. Monmouth, the shire-town, is 127 miles from London, a fair, large and well-built town.

The chief seats are:

Troy-house, D. Beaufort's; St Julian's, L. Herbert's of Chirbury; Llangibby-castle, Sir J. Williams's; Tredegar, Sir William Morgan's; Wondy, the Seymours; Ponty-pool, Mr. Hanbury's: this was formerly accounted a Welch county.

This county is divided into 7 hundreds.

NORWICH, the capital of this county, is an ancient, rich, large and populous city. It is a bishop's see, and is commodiously situated on the river Yare, over which it hath six large bridges. It hath 36 parish-churches, and 4 meetings, besides 2 churches one for the Dutch, the other for the Flemings. It is said to have been first built by the Saxons. Its cathedral is a fine fabric, and its spire beautiful. The walls of the city are three miles in circumference, with 12 gates for entrance. It is eminent for stuffs, of which they vend yearly to the amount of 100,000l. The number of inhabitants are computed at 45,000. It has a bishop's palace, a town-house &c. and is governed by a mayor, 24 aldermen, and 60 of the common-council, &c. The mayor is chosen yearly by the freemen, and the common council in mid-terms yearly. This city is likewise a county of itself. The people are very industrious, insomuch, that scarce any body is to be seen in the streets on week days; but on Sundays the streets are full, and the churches crowded.

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE,

IN the diocese of Peterborough, 120 miles in circumference, contains about 550,000 acres, and 24,808 houses; the soil is rich in tillage and pasture, and claims the honour of having more noblemen's seats in it than any county in England. The gentry likewise are numerous. Its rivers are Nene, Welland, and Ouse; its chief commodities corn, cattle, and salt-petre. It has 326 parishes. The shire-town Northampton, 67 miles from London, having suffered much by fire, is rebuilt with great splendor.

PETERBOROUGH is a city of great antiquity, and a bishop's see. It is not very large, has but one church besides its cathedral, yet its houses are well-built, and its streets are regular, with a fine market-place, over which the assizes and sessions for the hundred of Naffsbury are kept. Its jurisdiction extends over 32 towns; and the mayor, aldermen and recorder hold a quarterly sessions of oyer and terminer. But the glory of this city is its cathedral, which is the noblest piece of Gothic building in England, in length 160 yards, in breadth 34, and in height 62 yards. It has in it a very good library. The town is seated on the river Nyne, over which it has a bridge.

NORTHUMBERLAND,

IN the diocese of Durham, 155 miles in circumference, contains about 1,370,000 acres, and 22,741 houses; of a sharp and piercing air; the soil is rough, hilly, and hard to be manured; but it is daily improved. Its rivers are Tweed and Tyne: its chief commodities are lead, sea-coal, fish and fowl. It is divided into 46 parishes, which are large, having many of them chapels of ease. The chief is Newcastle upon Tyne, - 276 miles from London ; it furnishes most of the sea-port towns in England with coals, especially London with about 700,000 chaldrons a-year. The southern part of the county, round a market-town called Hexham, is from thence called Hexhamshire. Berwick is a strong town and island on the Scotch side of the river Tweed. Near and belonging to this county are divers islands, the three most noted are, Croket, Farn, and Holy-island.

Its chief seats are :

Ogle-castle, countess of Oxford's; Norham, L. Crew's; Elswick, E. Tankerville's; Farning, L. Gowran's; Leam, E. Carlisle's; Newton, D. Newcastle's; Haggerston, Sir Corn. Haggerston's; Biwell, Sir J. OXFORD is a noble populous city, an university, and the see of a bishop. It is situated on a delightful plain, on the banks of a fine navigable river, over which it has several bridges, in a plentiful country, and at an easy distance from London. It is full of public buildings; here are 20 colleges and 6 halls, a theatre, an edifice not to be equalled of its kind in the world; the Bodleian library, which is an ornament of itself worthy of this famous university, and lately the new library founded by dr Radcliffe. The city is large and regular, clean and strait; the place pleasant and healthful; the churches many and elegant; and all things consider'd, it must be acknowledged as the first university in Europe. This city is said to have been built 1000 years before Christ, it had the same laws and customs granted to it by ancient charters, as London, and liberty of being toll-free, all over England. Its chief trade is sending malt by the barges to London. Besides the government established in the university, it is also a corporation govern'd by a mayor, 8 assistants, a town-clerk, 2 bailiffs, 2 chamberlains, all that have served the office of bailiff and chamberlain and 24 common-council-men.

BRISTOL

BRISTOL is a city and county of itself, situated on the river Avon over which it has a stately stone-bridge cover'd with houses. The tide rises here six fathoms. It is a place exceeding populous, having above 70,000 inhabitants; 900 houses, 18 parish-churches, besides the cathedral, and 7 meetings. For trade it is inferior to none in England, except the city of London: It is said to have 3000 ships or trading vessels belonging to the port, and has a vast foreign and inland trade. It is likewise famous for its salubrious waters, with which it drives a great trade, insomuch that here are 15 glass-houses for making bottles, &c. They have coals at 7, 8 or 9 s. per chaldron. It was made a bishop's see by Hen. VIII. It has many public charities, and it is very remarkable here, the strict observation of the sabbath by all sorts of people. It is govern'd by a mayor, and 12 aldermen, of which the recorder is one, 2 sheriffs and 42 common-council-men. The magistracy are very tenacious of not admitting strangers to trade among them. They hold Oyer and Terminer.

WELLS is a small tho' noted city; said to be well-built; hath the neatest cathedral in England. The bishop's palace is in the close, which is like a little fortification with a moat round it. Here dwell the 27 prebends, 19 canons, the dean, the chancellor, the precentor and the three archdeacons. Bp Bekynton in 1443 built the beautiful palace-gate, and 12 stately stone houses. It has a mayor, recorder, 7 aldermen, and 16 common-council-men. It is populous, and its chief trade is in stockings.

BATH is a city of great antiquity, and eminent for its hot-baths, sovereign in palfies, gouts, rheumatisms, weakness of the nerves, and all scrophulous distempers. It was of old a resort for cripples and the diseased; but now of the sound as well as the sick; and here the indolent and the gay kill time. In the morning, the young lady is brought in a close chair, and the music plays her into the bath, when the women present her with a dish like a bason, into which the lady puts a handkerchief, a nosegay and a snuff-box; having amused herself for an hour, she returns to her lodging. In the bath, men and women stand up to the chin and stew, mostly in the way of gallantry. 'Tis also fashionable for the company to go every day to hear divine service. The rest of the diversion is at the rooms, backgammon, the play, and the assembly. The abbey-church is a venerable pile, near which is the lately erected building called the pump room. It has two other churches, and an hospital for sick and lame erected in 1738; it is governed by a mayor, 8 aldermen, and 24 common-council men, and hath a stately bridge over the Avon lately erected. The county of Somerset may boast of having 2 cities in it, though but 2 bishoprics, viz. Bristol, Bath and Wells.

STAFFORDSHIRE,

IT is in the diocese of Lichfield and Coventry, 141 miles in circumference, contains about 810,000 acres, and 23,747 houses. The air is sharp and healthful; the soil diverse. Its rivers are Trent, Churnet, Dove, Blithe, Line, Tean, Sow, Pink, Manifold. Its chief natural commodities are copper, lead, iron, alabaster (about Castle-Hay) and pit-coal, of which they make curious utensils. Its most considerable manufacture is nails, and utensils of iron. It has 150 parishes, Stafford, the shire and assize-town is well-built, has a free-school, and is 125 miles from London.

The chief seats are:

LICHFIELD, is a neat, well-built, large city, and very ancient. It has one of the finest cathedrals in England. It was once archiepiscopal under king Offa, but it did not hold it long, and has since had the see of Chester taken out of it; however it now contains 557 parishes. The city is a county of itself, with a jurisdiction extending 12 miles round; which circuit the sheriff of Lichfield rides every year on the eighth day of September. It is governed by two bailiffs, and a sheriff annually chosen out of 24 burgesses, and a recorder, who is judge within the jurisdiction of the city for debt and felony. It contains three parish-churches, and is well-frequented by gentry.

SUFFOLK,

In the diocese of Chichester, 158 miles in circumference, contains about 1,140,000 acres, acres, and 21,537 houses : the south downs that lie parallel to the sea are dry, bear good grass and p'eastant ; the low-lands or wilds of Sussex bear oats incredibly ; the soil is rich and deep ; the fo-rests barren, and towards the east, full of iron-oar : its manufactures are cast-iron of all sorts, for which there are many great forges in the ea-stern wilds towards Kent; it has divers rivers, but the most considerable is Arun : its commodities are corn, cattle, malt, wool, wood, iron, chalk, glas, fish and fowl, among which the delicate wheat-ear bird is said to be peculiar to this county. A Sussex carp, an Arundel mullet, and an A-merley trout are famous : its chief manufactures are great guns and glas. Here are 312 parishes. Chichester is 63 miles from London ; and Lewes is a large town, where the assizes are generally held.

Its chief seats are :

Petworth, E. Northumberland's ; Godwood, late D. Richmond's ; Up-park, E. Tankerville's ; Bishopston and Holland-castle, D. Newcastle's ; Buckhurst, D. Dorset's ; Kidbrook, L. CHICHESTER is situated on the river Lavant, and was first built by Cissa, the second king of the South Saxons; and was his residence. It is now an episcopal see, and has a fine cathedral, with a lofty spire; five parish-churches: its streets are very regular. It is famous for its stately cross repair'd in 1746 by the late duke of Richmond. Every wednesday fortnight here is one of the greatest cattle-markets in England. The chief manufactures here are malt and needles. It is governed by a mayor, recorder, aldermen, and common-council without limitation, and four justices of the peace chose out of the aldermen. It is a city and county of itself.

WARWICKSHIRE,

IS in the diocese of Worcester, and of Lichfield and Coventry, 110 miles in circumference, contains about 670,000 acres, and 21,973 houses: the air is excellent, the soil rich; its principal river is the Avon; commodities, corn, malt, wool, wood, iron, coal and cheese: the medicinal water of Newenham is purgative with salt, and astringent

COVENTRY is a city of large extent, rich and populous; situated on the river Sherborn, the water of which is peculiar for its blue dye; it drives a great trade in tammies and ribbons; the houses are built of timber and project forwards into the street as was formerly practised in London. The story of the lady Godiva, Godiva, who rode naked through the high-street of this city to purchase its exemption from oppressive taxes, is held by the citizens for certain truth. It is the sister-city to Lichfield, and once the seat of the see: it is a place of great antiquity, and before 1662 was inclosed with a strong wall, near three miles in compass, with 12 gates and 26 turrets. This city is a county incorporate, containing 19 villages and hamlets; it holds pleas, and is govern'd by a mayor, 10 aldermen, who preside over so many wards, a recorder, two sheriffs, &c. Here are three parish churches and two meetings; a free-grammar school, well endowed and having exhibitions; an hospital for 10 old men, another for 20 blue-coat boys, a third for eight married couple, and a fourth in Orchard street: the town receiv'd its first charter from Leofric earl of Mercia.

WESTMORELAND,

IS in the diocese of Chester and Carlisle, 110 miles in circumference, contains about 510,000 acres, and 6550 houses; the air is sharp, the soil not very good, mountainous and moory; the north parts are best; the rivers Eden, Can, Eammon, Lon. Here are 26 parishes. Kendal, 256 miles from London, is a rich, populous town, has a free-school well-endowed, and drives a great trade in woollen cloth, cotton, druggets, serges, hats and stockings; Kirby-Lonsdale is a large town, has a fair church, a stone bridge, and a good trade for cloth; Appleby has a free-school and hospital.

Its chief seats are:

Betham, E. Derby's; Appleby, E. Thanet's; Lowther, L. Lonsdale's; Rydall, Sir G. Flemming's; Whitehaven,

WILTSHIRE,

IS in the diocese of Salisbury, 128 miles in circumference, contains about 876,000 acres, and 27,093 houses; a pleasant and healthful air: the men are warlike and hardy: its rivers are Isis, Kennet, Avon, Willy and Nadder; its chief commodities are sheep, wool, wood, and choice rabbits of Auburn-chace; near Lavington is knot-grass ordinarily 15, sometimes 20 foot long; its long knots will fatten swine: the woollen manufacture of this county is very great. It has 304 parishes: Henden and Chippenham have great markets; the strange caves between Luckington and Badmington are supposed to have been the tombs of some great warriors; near Salisbury is the famed wonder of Stonehenge. Salisbury is 83 miles from London.

Murford, L. Feversham's; Charley, E. Berkshire's; Escot, D. Lancaster's; Lavington, E. Abingdon's; Tilshead, L. Godolphin's; Dantsey, E. Peterborough's; Marlborough, L. Hartford's; Tokenham, E. Northumberland's; Longbrough, L. Coleraine's; Wiltton, E. Pembroke's; Ambresbury, D. Queensberry's; Longford, L. Folkestone's; Longfleet, L. Weymouth's; Eddington, D. Bolton's; Maiden-bradley, L. SALISBURY is a well-built, clean and pleasant city; the streets are all at right angles, and are generally wide and spacious, and a fine canal of water well-brick'd runs through each; it is seated at the conflux of the Avon and the Willy. It is the see of a bishop. The chief buildings are the cathedral a stately structure, accounted one of the finest in the world; it is said, to have as many doors as months, windows as days, and pillars as hours in the year, a large cloyster, a bishop's palace, a town hall, a spacious market-place, and three parish churches. It is a place of great trade, and reckoned one of the most flourishing cities in the kingdom that depends entirely on home-trade, here are several boarding-schools for young gentlemen and ladies, there being more of the latter educated in this city, than in any other in England. It is govern'd by a mayor, high-steward, recorder, deputy-recorder, 24 aldermen and 30 of the common-council, and a town-clerk.

WORCESTER is a bishop's see, and a city and county of itself, pleasantly and commodiously seated on the Severn, over which it has a fair stone-bridge; it is a place of great antiquity, supposed to be first built by the Romans; it enjoys great privileges and immunities, and is a city at this time of extraordinary beauty and splendor. Its cathedral is a large edifice, with an elegant choir of very curious workmanship; here are 12 churches, 3 grammar schools, 7 hospitals liberally endowed, a fair aqueduct, and a well-contrived quay. It enjoys a great trade, especially for clothing, and its markets are very considerable for cattle, flesh, fish, and all sorts of provisions; it is very populous and contains upwards of 2000 houses. The city is divided into 7 wards, and is govern'd by a mayor, 6 aldermen, who are justices of the peace, chosen out of 24 common-council-men, a sheriff, and 48 assistants, out of whom the two chamberlains are annually chosen; a recorder, town-clerk, sword-bearer, 2 coroners and 4 serjeants at mace.

IS in York diocese, 360 miles in circuit, contains about 3,770,000 acres, and 110,151 houses;

houses; the air is diverse; the soil generally rich: it is divided into three ridings, east, north, and west; its rivers are, Humber (the conflux of the following, Aire, Culdro, Dun, Derwent, Nide, Ouse, Swall, Youre, Warf) and Tees: its commodities, corn, cattle, fine horses, alum, jett, lime, fish; herrings near Scarborough; iron about Sheffield; goats at Sureby; its manufactures cloth, stockings, knives and spurs. In the north-riding is a tract of land called Richmondshire, whose hills afford copper, lead and pit-coal; its chief town is Richmond. Here are in all 563 parish-churches, with many chapels of ease; the shire-town York is 192 miles from London; Hull is one of the strongest fortresses of England; Sheffield is noted for smiths trade; Rotheram for 3 schools, the first for languages, the second for music, and the third for writing; Knaresborough for 4 medicinal springs of different operations: one of which, called the Dropping-Well, is the most famous of all the petrifying springs in England; Doncaster for knit waistcoats, gloves and stockings; Leeds for clothiers; Sherborn for its free-school; Pontefract, Knaresborough and Ripley for liquorice; Rippon for clothiers and spur-makers; Borough-bridge has near it 4 huge pyramidal stones, called by the vulgar, the Devil's-Arrows, a monument of antiquity. Here are many excellent harbours; as Scarborough, famous likewise for its medicinal Spaw-water; Burlington, &c.

YORK, the second city in the kingdom, and the see of an archbishop, was by the Romans called Eboracum, who had a station here. It is a place of great antiquity, said to be built by Ebranc, a British king 980 years before Christ. It is pleasantly seated in a valley on the banks of the river Ouse, which divides the city into two parts, over which it hath a stately stone bridge. This city always gives title to the second prince of the blood royal. — Its cathedral for magnificence of structure challenges the pre-eminence of all other Gothic churches, not only here, but throughout Europe : the city of Lincoln contends with York for preference, and in this point both cities are very tenacious. This city stands upon more ground than any other in England, except London and Norwich. It is populous, full of gentry and persons of distinction ; well-frequented by merchants, enjoys a good trade. It has several public buildings, the bishop's palace, a mansion-house for the chief magistrate, erected in 1728 ; 32 parish churches, besides hospitals, schools, almshouses, &c. It is inclosed with a strong wall, having four gates, and is divided into 4 wards. It is govern'd by a lord-mayor (as London is) 12 aldermen, justices of the peace, 2 sheriffs, 8 chamberlains, a recorder, town-clerk, 24 prime and 48 common-council-men. It is a county of itself, and has jurisdiction over 36 villages or hamlets, called the hundred or liberty of Ainsty. It has four markets weekly, well provided of flesh, fish, fowl, &c. and all sorts of necessaries are here very cheap.

I shall briefly touch on the isles of Jersey, Guernsey, Alderney and Sark, the only remains of the dukedom of Normandy, now in the possession of the crown of England.

J. JERSEY, formerly called Cæsar's Island and Cæsarea, from Cæsar's conquest of it. The length of this island is 12 miles, and its breadth 7 ; its north side from its lofty cliffs is 40 fathoms from the sea ; the climate here is wholesome, which occasion'd Carinden to say, That there was no room for the physician ; but luxury has introduced him since. The rocks are vast and terrible, and the tides rapid and strong ; the whole island consists of 12 parishes, which are divided into 52 vintains, or districts. At St Aubin is held every monday a market, or rather exchange, where merchants meet for transacting affairs of navigation and traffic. There are five regiments of regular forces on the island. The civil government is administer'd by a bailiff assisted by 12 jurats, who have the mace borne before them. St Magloire the apostle of Jersey lies buried here. Its chief trade is the manufacture of stockings.

2. GUERNSEY, anciently called Sarnia, distant from Jersey 20 miles to the north-west; it has 10 parishes, and these peculiar privileges: 1. That no venomous creature can subsist here. 2. It is naturally fortified from invasion by craggy rocks and precipices. 3. Enjoys a superior trade to Jersey. 4. It hath also better ports for shipping. It hath the same civil government as Jersey.

3. ALDERNEY, contains one parish, with a church, 200 houses, and about 1000 inhabitants.

4. SARKE, which as well as Alderney is dependent on Guernsey, is 2 miles in length; its corn is excellent, and its water is very good: the inhabitants are 300, and they have a church.

In the Bristol channel lie the ISLANDS OF SCILLY, which are dependent on the crown of England; the chief of which are: St Martin's; St Mary's; St Agnes; Tresco and Byer. They are distant from the Land's End about 30 miles; in length 15, in breadth 7, and in circumference 44. In which are no less than 41 little isles, which have all their names: Bishop and Clerks, where Sir Clodesley Shovel was lost; Caribmack, Pedmanthes, Rasavan, Petirrew, Camperdeny, Goregan, Ryal, Rosevers, Crehawethen, Crimbiishop, Terenemene, Meledgan, Gunner, Annet, Gittern, Gugh, Wingleton, Ganely, Arthur, Ganick, Harm, White, Penbrose, Tena, Round, Helena, Guaball, Scilly, Soak, Mincarle, White, Ganely, Ganick, Inaswiggick, Samson, G. Minalta, L. Minalta, Woolpack, le Geffery and Smith.

In the Irish sea lies the ISLE OF MAN, called Mona by the ancients. It has for time immemorial belonged

ed to families who have done homage to the crown of England for it. Its baron is stiled King in Man. It is an episcopate, and the chief ecclesiastic is stiled, The bishop of Sodor and Man. It is govern'd by its own laws and customs, and hath a civil judicature, pleas of oyer and terminer, equity, &c. within itself; but its bishop is subject to the abp of York, in ecclesiastical affairs. It is divided into 4 districts, viz. Douglas, Peel, Ramsey and Town. In which divisions the Deemsters sit at certain seasons of the year, for the administration of justice; the baron also has his courts, and the bishop his, and it is said, that the church discipline is here well enforced. It is in length 26 miles, in breadth 13, and in compass about 80 miles. It contains about 20 parish-churches, besides chapels of ease.

ANGLESEA,

As in the diocese of Bangor, 60 miles in circumference, contains about 200,000 acres, and 1840 houses; an island encompassed by the Irish sea on all sides but the south-east, where it is parted from Carnarvon by the river Menia: this island was anciently called Insula Opaca, from the great quantity of wood with which it was over-grown ; its principal commodities are corn, cattle, fish and fowl : it has 74 parishes. Beaumaris, its chief town, is well built, and has a good harbour for ships ; distant from London 241 miles. Near this town L. Bulkeley has a fine seat.

BANGOR,

BANGOR, is a city noted for its antiquity, and for the most early reception of christianity in this part of Britain; it is the see of a bishop, but has an old, mean-looking, and almost despicable cathedral, yet it boasts of being one of the most ancient in England, and that St Daniel, to whom it is dedicated, was the first bishop here in 512. It is at present no rich bishopric, but is a sort of introduction to a better, and very few have died bishops of Bangor; so that, in some sense, the bishop of this see may be said to be immortal. It is governed by a mayor, &c.

DENBIGHSHIRE,

IS mostly in the diocese of St Asaph; but the vale of Clywd is all or most of it in Bangor diocese, and Denbigh itself in that of St. Asaph. And here it may not be improper to observe, that the reason why the jurisdictions of the bishops of St Asaph and Bangor are so intermixed, is supposed to be, because the former was bishop in the dominions of the princes of North-Wales, and the latter in those of the princes of Powis-land. This county is 116 miles in circumference, and contains about 410,000 acres, and 6398 houses; the east-part is naturally fruitful, and the west improved by the ashes of burnt turf; the inhabitants are cheerful and long-liv'd: Here is plenty of rye, or amel-corn; goats and sheep, and good quantity of lead-ore, in many parts of the county. It hath 57 parishes. Denbigh is a town of good trade for tanners and glovers, and hath a most impregnable castle; Wrexham, the biggest town in North-Wales hath a neat church and lofty steeple.

W A L E S.

Its chief seats are :

Wynstay, late Sir Watkin William Wynn's; Chirk-castle, John Myddleton's, Esq.; Llewenny, Sir Robert Salisbury Cotton's.

IS mostly in the diocese of St. Asaph, and the rest in Chester; it is 40 miles in circumference, contains about 160,000 acres, 3150 houses, and 28 parishes; its vallies are very fruitful, and its inhabitants long-liv'd : the chief commodities are cattle, butter, cheese, pit-coal, lead, mill-stones, and honey, with which they make good store of metheglin. Flint, the shire-town, is so small that it has not now a market ; St Asaph is 212 miles from London ; Caerwys is the chief market-town in the county, every village being well furnished of itself ; Moyston, famous for its coal-pits, from whence Dublin is supplied therewith, and for the seat of Sir Roger Moyston.

LANDAFF is an ancient city, a bishop's see, and whose cathedral is said to have been first built in the year 186; but it was a very small one, according to history, being no more in length than 20 feet, and in breadth 10, and had neither steeple nor bells: the present church built by bishop Urban is a neat building tho' very ancient; it was some time an archiepiscopate. It is seated on a river which empties itself into Severn sea.

PEMBROKESHIRE,

IS in the diocese of St. David's, 93 miles in circumference, contains about 420,000 acres, and 4330 houses; the east part is very pleasant, and the whole county plentiful in all necessaries of life: part of it is inhabited by Flemings placed here by Hen. I. their country is called Little England beyond Wales; here is plenty of fish, fowl, pit-coal and marl. It has 45 parishes; Pembroke the shire-town is 236 miles from London, is well inhabited by gentlemen and tradesmen, and fortified with a wall and strong castle. In this shire is contained the town and county of Haverford-west, and Milford-haven, the largest and most capacious harbour in the kingdom.

Its chief seats are:

Picton-castle, Sir John Phillips's, Bart. Orielton, Sir Arthur Owen's; and Pendergrass, Sir T. Stepney's.

 21. 22. ST DAVID'S

ST DAVID's was formerly the see of an archbishop, and now of a bishop; the cathedral has a venerable aspect, tho' now very ancient, and in great decay. Here is St David's monument, of whom they tell us, that he was uncle to king Arthur, that he liv'd 146 years, was bishop 65, that he built 12 monasteries, and performed many miracles: in fair weather one may see Ireland from the land here called St. David's head; they reckon up 144 bishops since it began to the year 1740. It is governed by a mayor, &c.

RADNORSHIRE,

IS in the diocese of Hereford, 90 miles in circumference, contains about 310,000 acres, and 3158 houses; hath great variety of air and soil, and is stored with wood, rivers and meers: its chief commodities are cheese and horses. It hath 52 parishes; Radnor the shire-town is 150 miles from London, and hath a castle; Presteign is a large well-built town where the assizes are held.

The chief seats are:

Harnage, Sir W. Fowler's; Maesyllwich, Sir Humphry Howarth's; and Harpton, T. Lewis, Esq;

WALES is divided into two parts : North-Wales contains six counties, viz. Anglesea, Carnarvon, Denbigh, Flint, Merioneth and Montgomery : South-Wales, the counties of Brecknock, Cardigan, Carmarthen, Glamorgan, Pembroke and Radnor. The inhabitants never submitted to the English till the reign of Edward I. when that prince having subdued Llewellyn, the last of the race of the princes of true British blood, whom he slew, and having cut off his head, he crown'd it with ivy, and set it upon the tower of London ; after which he caused queen Eleanor to go into Wales.

Wales, and at Carnarvon she was brought to bed of a son, whom Edward proclaimed Prince of Wales; to whom the Welch patiently submitted, as being a prince born in their own nation, to whom they then did homage, and have ever since quietly acknowledged the sovereignty of England. However this will always remain to their everlasting honour, that they are the descendants of that brave people, who had an original right to the whole island, and who made so noble a stand in defence of their liberties and independency; and at last, rather than submit to a foreign yoke, chose to be free in this remote and inaccessible part of it. It has ever since been thus far disjoined from England, as to be a principality, and having its own language, the Cambro-britannic, its own judges, four bishops, courts of justice, equity, &c. retains the form of a kingdom or royalty. It is very mountainous, yet fruitful, and bless'd with all the necessaries of life. It is in length from Breaksea-point, to Carven-point in Anglesea 150 miles; in breadth from Alston in Salop on the borders of Montgomery, to Llaneber on the sea-coasts in Merionethshire, 50 miles; this is the narrowest part of Wales; but it is in breadth taking it from Crecowel on the borders of Brecknockshire, to St David's head in Pembrokeshire, 99 miles.

THIS kingdom is 215 Scotch miles in length, and where broadest 140; it hath about 300 islands, called the Orcades, the Hebrides, and the isles of Shetland: the country abounds in lakes and rivers; the soil is fruitful; and their salmon is accounted the best in Europe, and of which there is great plenty, for in the isle of Sky are 30 rivers all abounding therewith; their cod are reckoned better than the Newfoundland; also herrings in abundance on all its coasts; where the Dutch have for many years reaped reaped great advantage; but lately a company of British herring fishery has been instituted at London by act of parliament; and which is very likely to prove of great service to the nation: whales innumerable frequent the islands, 14 of whom ran ashore at Orkney in 1691; otters are also very numerous, whose skins are used for muffs. Here are great plenty of tusk, ling, haddock, sturgeon, turbot, trouts, perch, pike, scate, mackerel, whiting, soles, eels, &c. and here is found great store of pearl, which is reckoned the best in Europe; their sheep and cattle are smaller than the English, yet they are of a more delicious taste; they have many hogs, and an incredible number of goats, and many deer; they breed many horses, and have plenty of domestic fowls, their fowl and eggs are a large fund of trade for food, and their feathers for bedding. They have hemp and wool in abundance, and from whence arises their linen and woollen manufactures; its wheat is excellent, and no bread in Europe is comparable to it for whiteness, lightness and easy digestion; oats, pease, beans, barley and rye abound here; they have some mountains, and many large woods of oak; some medicinal waters, fountains and springs. It hath coral, amber-grease, marcasites, crystal, fuller's earth, fine shells, loadstones, sperma-ceti, mines of gold and silver, lead, iron, coal, freestone, slate, &c. in great plenty. The established form of religion in Scotland is that of the Presbyterian; being a church-government by pastors, teachers, elders and deacons; they have four ecclesiastical courts, the kirk-session, the presbytery, the provincial and the general assembly; it is divided into 13 provincial synods, in which are 68 presbyteries, and 950 parishes; they have no pluralities. The order of the Thistle is very ancient, and said to be founded by Achaius the 65th king in Scotland in 819. As to the civil government here are three courts, the session, the justiciary and the court of exchequer; the officers of state are, the keeper of the seal, the lord privy-seal, the clerk-register and the lord advocate. Every county has a chief magistrate, but from him lies an appeal to the session; the sheriff is the supreme justice of peace. Here are three sorts of burghs; burghs royal; burghs of regality; and burghs of barony; also a commissariot-court for the trial of causes of matrimony and adultery; they have also a court of admiralty,

A brief History of ENGLAND.

THIS kingdom is in length 386 miles, in breadth 279, and in circumference 1300. Julius Cæsar when he invaded this island found it divided into 28 kingdoms, A. M. 3925; the Romans met with great opposition from the kings thereof, but from none so great as from Boadicea, the widow of Prasutagus, who having received great indecencies and incivilites from them, she in one battle slew 80,000 of them; she took and sacked those two great and strong cities Verolamium and Camelodamum: but at length she was vanquished in battle, when rather than live subject to her foes, she poisoned herself. About A.D. 67. Joseph of Arimathea being sent by Philip planted the gospel first at Glastonbury in Somersetshire. Under king Lucius, the first Christian king in the world, the Pagan four arch-flamins, and the 24 flamins were converted into bishops sees; whereof London, Caerleon, York and Usk in Wales were metropolitan; Theanus was the first archbishop of London. The Britons harassed by the Piets invite the Saxons to their assistance, who coming usurp the government; and in 450 divide the island into 7 kingdoms called the Heptarchy, 1. The kingdom of Kent, consisting of that county only: The South Saxons, Sussex and Surry: 3. The West Saxons, Cornwall, Devon, Dorset, Somerset, Wilts, hel

Berks and Hants : 4. The East Saxons, Essex, Middlesex, and part of Hartfordshire : 5. The kingdom of Northumberland, York, Durham, Lancashire, Westmoreland, Cumberland and Northumberland. 6. Mercia, Oxfordshire, Gloucester, Warwick, Salop, Cheshire, Stafford, Worcester, Bedford, Bucks, Hunting-ton, Northampton, Leicester, Lincoln, Derby, Nottingham, and part of Hartfordshire : 7. The East Angles; Norfolk, Suffolk and Cambridge. This usage was resented by the Britains, and Arthur their king in 516 fought 12 battles against the Saxons, in the last of which at Bath he gave them a great overthrow ; he reigned 28 years. Honorius, archbishop of Canterbury in 636 first divided England into parishes. In 690 Ines, king of the West Saxons gave the pope the tribute called the Peter-pence or Rome-scot, being a penny for every house ; at first it was the king's alms, but it soon became the people's. In 733. the scriptures were ordered to be publickly read, and the Creed and the Lord's Prayer taught in the English tongue. The Danes in 860 invade Britain, worst the inhabitants, and burn London. Alfred built Oxford, and made it an university. In 901 Edmond was crowned at Kingston in Surry ; 924 Elfrick, archbishop of Canterbury first ordered the priests to expound the scriptures in English to the people ; 959, the land is pester'd with wolves, but are destroyed by king Edgar, the Danes introduce drunkenness. On the death of Edmond, Canute, who before had half the kingdom, now seiz'd on the other half, and then went a pilgrimage to Rome in 1017 ; he died in 1035, and was succeeded by Harold, who died in 1040 at Oxford ; Hardicanute, the last Dane governed scarce two years, when dying, the English nobility send for Edward the confessor, son of Ethelred, who for safety had been sent to the duke of Normandy, he was crowned at Winchester in 1042. Now ended the power of the Danes ; and the tribute of 40,000 l, which had been paid paid to Denmark for 40 years past was remitted ; he refounded the church and monastery of saint Peter at Westminster, and built saint Margaret's church ; he was a pious prince ; he died in 1066, and is succeeded by Harold, the son of earl Goodwin, tho' Edward had left the crown to William the Norman ; hereupon William sends an embassy to claim the kingdom, which Harold did not regard ; wherefore William comes into England with an army, and is met by Harold with a brave and undaunted mind, who advanced with his troops into Sussex, within seven miles of the enemy, and on the 14th of October both armies engaged, when Harold being slain, William, who from hence was styled the conqueror, was quietly crowned Dec. 25. by Aldred archbishop of York ; he behaved like a tyrant, disposing of property at pleasure, and abrogating the ancient laws and customs, he instituted others ; he first ordained the four terms, in lieu of the primitive custom of deciding controversies, since called law-suits, monthly in every hundred, in their remote, or hundred court. He made a Survey of England, which he intitled, The Doomsday-Book ; and reigned about 21 years ; Rufus his successor, sold the rights of the church to the best bidder, which sale was performed by the two candidates by a method called Drop-Bezantine ; he that could drop most was sure of promotion : at Westminster he laid the foundation of a stately palace and finished the present great hall ; he reigned near twelve years. Henry first punished coiners with loss of right-hand and genitals ; ordained that widows should enjoy their jointures, and marry to their liking ; restored the church to its rights, and his subjects to the free use of fire and candle ; at Salisbury he first assembled the estates spiritual and temporal, and thereby laid the foundation of the high court of parliament. Stephen in 1135 succeeded, and first granted Magna Charta. In 1154 Henry II. ascended the throne, and was the first prince who brought the clergy under the civil power, in cases of theft, murder, debt, &c. first enacted, that no appeal should be made to Rome without his leave; and first made the archbishops, bishops, &c. take an oath to try clerks before secular judges, and to observe the civil laws; he greatly opposed the power of the pope. Richard the first, on the death of Henry, succeeded in 1189; he first instituted the circuits of the judges, sending his chancellor and lord chief justice to administer justice one on this side Humber, and the other on the other side; made Alwin first mayor of London, and granted the citizens the privilege of electing their chief magistrate. John succeeded in 1199, to whom the people first take a conditional oath, viz. To keep faith and peace to him, if he would render to every man his rights. He first appointed those excellent forms of civil government in cities and towns incorporate, endowing them with great franchises; he settled the rates and measures for wine, cloth, bread, and such like necessities of commerce. In this reign, in 1176, London-bridge was, by Peter of Colechurch, first begun to be built of stone. Henry the third, in 1216, being then ten years of age, succeeded, by the consent of the peers and prelates, who appoint the earl of Pembroke regent during the minority; it was a long reign of 56 years, but Henry dying in 1272, Edward the first succeeded, and the Welch, on the death of their prince Llewelin, and on queen Eleanor's being brought to bed of a son at Carnarvon in Wales, quietly submit to the sovereignty of England; this good queen goes with Edward to the holy wars; in a synod held at Reading, it was first ordained, that no ecclesiastic should have more than one benefice to which belonged the cure of souls. In 1307 Edward the second succeeded, who having reign'd fifteen years, surrendered his crown to his son Edward the third, in 1323, who first quartered the French arms with the English; first instituted the order of the garter, restrained the pope from the

the disposal of benefices in England ; invited cloth-workers from beyond the seas, and established the staple of wool, at Westminster, Canterbury, Bristol, Lincoln and Hull ; Edward his son, called the black prince, was first created duke of Cornwall. Now Wickliffe arose and spoke against the Roman absurdities, and is encouraged by divers of the nobility. In 1377 Richard the second is crowned in the eleventh year of his age, and the parliament take the taxes off the common people, and lay them on the rich ; in 1379 a poll-tax of twelve-pence is laid on every one of each sex above such an age, which occasioned the rebellion of Jack Straw and Wat Tyler, which Walworth, then Lord-mayor of London put an end to by stabbing the latter in Smithfield, for which service the dagger is said to be added to the arms of the city ; in 1399, he resigned his crown on being accused of breaking his coronation-oath, to Henry the fourth ; in 1405, the first gun or musket was used at the siege of Berwick, and the followers of Wickliffe called the Lollards are by an act of parliament ordered to be burnt. Henry the fifth, was crowned in 1412 ; he suppresses 110 priories alien of foreigners, and sir Roger Acton knight, and the lord Cobham are burnt as heretics for maintaining Wickliffe's principles ; he died of a burning flux and fever in 1422, and was succeeded by his son, Edward the sixth in the eighth month of his age, when he was crowned, and the duke of Exeter appointed regent ; now great contests arise between the houses of York and Lancaster which embroil the land ; in 1442 the king founded Eaton-college and King's at Cambridge. In 1460, Edward the fourth of the line of York ascended the throne ; he married a private gentleman's widow ; first ordained, that all persons should bear arms from the age of fifteen to sixty ; he laid the foundation of saint George's chapel at Windsor, and was used to sit in person certain days together in the court court of King's Bench ; the art of printing is in this reign in 1471 brought into England and practised in the abbey at Westminster. In 1483 Edward the fifth, being then about twelve years of age, succeeded, whom Richard the protector contrived to dethrone, and to get himself chose king ; his protectorship lasted but a little while ; when in 1485, the houses of York and Lancaster were united in the choice of Henry the seventh ; he first instituted a body guard, called the yeomen of the guard ; he reversed all grievous acts, and the crown is now made hereditary ; he died in 1503. ; and Henry the eighth ascended the throne ; he was accounted the most learned prince in Christendom ; he renewed his claim to the crown of France ; but Leo interfering settled the differences between the two crowns ; and Henry is by Leo first styled, The defender of the faith : he first procured an act for the absolute abolition of the pope's supremacy ; queen Anne was a great protector of the Lollares, and she procured a toleration for Protestant divines ; which so provoked the Catholicks, that they contrived her death ; in 1540 the king grants a commission to purge the churches of religious images, and to suppress the monasteries, houses and places dedicated to devotion ; which accordingly took place, and down went the monasteries in number 645, 90 colleges, and of chantries and free chapels 2374 ; now the Bible was first ordered to be read in churches in English, and register books of weddings, christenings and burials first ordered to be kept in every parish ; he erected the bishopricks of Westminster, Chester, Oxford, Peter-borough, Bristol and Gloucester ; and also erected the cathedral churches of Canterbury, Winchester, Worcester, Chester, Peterborough, Ely, Gloucester, Bristol, Carlisle, Durham, Rochester and Norwich ; in all which cathedrals he founded a dean, with a certain number of prebendaries ; in 1546 beer first comes into use ; Henry died in the same year, after a reign reign of 37 years, and Edward the sixth on Feb. 20. is crowned king, who perfected the reformation of religion began in the former reign, built Christ's Hospital, saint Thomas's and Bridewell ; he died in 1553, and lady Jane Grey is queen for nine days ; when she is deposed to make room for queen Mary, who re-established popery and burnt the Protestants ; Mary reigned about five years ; and Elizabeth her sister was crown'd January 15, who immediately restor'd the Protestant religion, abrogated the pope's supremacy, and bids defiance to all the power and artifices of the see of Rome, and to his bull which absolved all her subjects from their allegiance ; Gresham builds at London the Exchange, which Elizabeth calls Royal ; the pope spirits up Spain to restore England to mother-church ; they send a fleet which the pope blesses, and calls the Invincible Armada ; but the queen beloved by all her Protestant subjects, assembles at Tilbury such of them as were willing to follow her, and thus she guarded the coast, whilst at sea Drake with his ships destroy the Spanish fleet ; she lived beloved by her own people, dreaded by her enemies, and died after a long reign truly lamented ; trade first began to flourish in her reign. James the first, king of Scotland was her successor, when certain divines endeavour to bring about a farther reformation in religious ceremonies ; the king hereupon appointed a conference to be held at Hampton-court for this purpose, where he attended, and in the conclusion was of opinion that the church needed no farther reformation ; however he caused the Bible to be re-translated ; Nov. 5, 1605. the powder-plot. In 1625, James died, and Charles the first began his reign, who by the sovereign authority levied subsidies on his people and duties on merchandizes imported and exported ; such like proceedings and his over-fondness for the hierarchy of the church at length bring about his martyrdom ; now Laud first railed in the communion-table, and raised steps to ascend to the altar; the king having disengaged the people, the parliament vote themselves to sit during pleasure, in 1640. whereupon the king and parliament grow at variance; in 1642 the king retires to Windsor; now the parliament take on themselves the management of the affairs of state, send forth fleets and armies; the king sets up his standard against the parliament at Nottingham and deems them by proclamation rebels: At which the parliament is greatly enraged, and Cromwell takes this opportunity to advise the battle of Naseby, which proving successful on the parliament-side, Cromwell represents the king and royal party as enemies of the good people of England; notwithstanding the parliament send articles of peace to the king, who refuses the same. At length by the faction of Cromwell, Charles is brought to the block, and at Whitehall is beheaded on the 30th of Jan. 1648; the parliament take on them the government, and make Oliver their generalissimo. 1650, Quakers first appear in England; 1653, Cromwell put an end to the long parliament, and constituted a council of state; institutes a parliament of 150 members who enact, that justices of the peace should marry; 1656 his new parliament stile him, The protector of the commonwealth of England, and ordain, that a year's rent be paid the protector for every new house built within ten miles of London; in 1657 the parliament desire Oliver to take on him the government of the three kingdoms, and stile him, The Lord Protector. Of this audacious man it will now be sufficient to say, that he overthrew monarchy, the hierarchy of religion, made all the kings of the earth stand in awe of him, increased the trade of his country, improved its manufactures, curbed the insolence of its enemies, and has left behind him for heroism not his equal. Soon after his death Charles the second being restored, and with him the church of England, the first part of his reign was taken up in punishing regicides, the latter in gallantry; in 1662 hearth money was first raised; 1666 London burnt; 1673 all persons first swore, that there is no transubstantiation in the bread and wine consecrated by the priests, and given in the sacrament of the Lord's Supper; penal laws against popery recognized; 1683, the king by Quo Warranto seizes the charter of London, and appoints during his life all the mayors; he likewise seized the charters of all cities and towns corporate; he several times harassed the Dissenters; he died Feb. 2, 1685. and was succeeded by his brother James duke of York, who dispenses with the laws of the land, in behalf of his favourites; advances popish recusants, and takes away the test, that Catholics might serve in the state; erects an ecclesiastical court of inquisition, 1686; grants liberty of conscience to the Dissenters; oppresses the bishops and universities; all which acts work his ruin, and bring about the Revolution; for the people seeing that he kept no faith with them, invade their rights and abuse them, send to the prince of Orange to come over from Holland and redress their grievances: on which the pusillanimous king abdicated, and William is crown'd king with Mary his queen, Feb. 13, 1689; and now the Dissenters obtain the act of toleration, and which great privilege has subsisted ever since; the city of London and all the corporations have their charters restored and confirmed by act of parliament; hearth-money is abrogated; king James's parliament who bring in William continue themselves for another year; proposes a comprehension in matters of religion, which does not take place on account of obstinacy in Dissenters; 1684 the Bank of England first erected: in this reign taxes are first loaned; land-tax and standing-armies first introduced into England; the money re-coined, and the duty on houses and windows first levied. In this reign, the clergy in convocation give up their ancient right of raising subsidies on themselves;

selves; are by act of parliament first made freeholders in every county, and their livings subjected to the land-tax. His majesty, our deliverer from popery and arbitrary power, died on the eighth of March, 1701, when Ann, the daughter of king James ascended the throne, as queen of England and Scotland; 1703 the high wind, which tore up trees by the roots, overturned houses, stript the tiling off of houses in the cities, and blew down innumerable chimnies; the losf was computed at about one million; an act passed for the augmentation of the maintenance of poor clergymen, to which corporation the queen gave the first fruits; 1706 the union of England and Scotland by the name of Great-Britain took place; also an act for building 50 new churches in London and Westminster, Southwark, and the suburbs thereof; the queen died Aug. 1, 1714; and the princess Sophia dying two months before, the crown according to law devolved on her eldest son George Lewis, at that time prince electoral of Bruntwick Lunenburg; now the pretender, the son of James the second raises a rebellion in Scotland, which the king's forces suppress in 1716; 1717 the Thames frozen over; 1720 the year of South sea and bubbles. Septennial parliaments arise, money first given for foreign alliances; 1720, the bishop of Rochester on account of suspicion of treason is banished; the earl of Macclesfield lord chancellor is fined by the commons in 30,000 l. for male-practices, and imprisoned till paid; 1725, the ancient order of the knights of the Bath is revived; the king died on his journey to Hanover; and George the second, his present majesty on the 11th of June, 1727, ascended the throne.; the king on lord-mayor's-day dines in the city; street-robberies arise; the siege of Gibraltar begun in the last reign is raised; 1729, the prisons of the Fleet and the Marshalsea reformed; 1733, broad pieces called in, and the excise-bill rejected; 1736 the Dissenters petition to remove the Test,

Tess; but the house being moved, it passed in the negative : Stocks-market removed to Fleet-ditch, and the mansion-house began to be built ; 1740 a camp on Hounslow-heath was formed, which drew thither many spectators ; 1744 the rebellion broke out in Scotland, when a banditti of French and Highlanders to the number of about 8000 enter'd England raising contributions, pillaging and plundering wherever they came, till the English forces under the conduct of the duke of Cumberland at the battle of Culloden, put an end to this unnatural and wicked undertaking ; 1746 the parliament dissolved at the end of the sixth sittings, and a new one chose in the summer following ; 1749 two earthquakes are felt, one on Feb. 8. and the other on March 8; and a third being expected, great numbers of nobility, clergy, gentry and others leave London the eve of the 5th day of April, inso-much that the inns for 30 or 40 miles round the town were thronged, besides the infinite crowds of people who resorted into the fields and open places in the neighbourhood of the city ; 1750 on the 18th of November the Bridge at Westminster was opened at 12 o'clock at night on a saturday ; on the 20th of March following, his royal highness Frederick, prince of Wales died much lamented.

ENGLAND is divided into six circuits, allotted to the twelve judges to hold the assizes twice a-year : it is also divided by the king's justices in eyre of the forests, and the kings at arms into north and south ; that is, all counties upon the north and south-side of Trent.

There are in all, in England and Wales 29 cities, 300 great towns called market-towns, 10,118 parishes, 61 forests, and about 300 parks.

It appears, from the observations and calculations of a late writer, that the rents of the lands, by the produce of the taxes seem to be near ten millions a year; and that the houses (not let with the lands) amount to two millions annually, and all other hereditaments to about two millions more; in all fourteen millions: so that the people and territories of the king of England, alone, may be valued for wealth and strength at above one half of those of France. And since the whole annual income of the people of England is about 50 millions, it will require but an eighth part thereof to maintain 100,000 foot, 30,000 horse, 40,000 seamen, and to defray all other charges of the government, ordinary and extraordinary.

It is to be observed, that the several feast-days on which the payments of the rents, annuities, &c. depend, and also the opening of common fields and pastures stures are, by the calender established by the late act of parliament, fixed upon the same nominal days of the respective months as before in the Julian account they were placed; yet the act provides and directs, that the payments of rents, annuities, &c. or the opening or shutting of pastures, shall not by this means be accelerated or forwarded; but that the days of payment, or right of opening or inclosing of commons, formerly depending on the said feasts, are to be kept and observed on the same natural days of the year on which the said feasts would have fallen, if this act had not been made. For this reason the 10th of October is called Old Michaelmas-Day, and the twenty-second of November Old Martinmas-Day, and so of the rest, as being the respective days on which such rents or payments become due, and on which such rights of commons, &c. take place, and not before.

Note. That all dates of births, deaths, or other remarkable events, in the regal or chronological tables, prior to, or upon, the second of September 1752, are to be understood according to the Julian account, or old style; but after that time, the annual returns of them are placed in the calendar part of the almanack, according to the new style, eleven nominal days later. As, for instance, the day of the king's coronation, in the chronological table, is mentioned on the eleventh of October, on which day that ceremony was performed in the year 1727, after the new style takes place, the twenty-five years, since that event, will not be fully compleated, till the twenty-second day of the same month, where the return of it is placed; and the same is to be understood of all other events of the like sort.
